WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

An upper trough will slowly sink south over California today. Conditions will remain mostly dry with isolated showers or thunderstorms over the interior mountains today and Friday. Gusty winds will continue along the coast and on exposed ridges through tonight. Temperatures should continue to be seasonal over the next few days.

Medford Weather:

An upper low is moving across our area this morning, and it will slide into Northern California later this morning. Guidance doesn't show much precipitation, but satellite and radar trends certainly hint that we should see some showers. The activity will then shift to the south this afternoon, and we could see some lightning again over southern Oregon and into Northern California.

Reno Weather:

Low pressure moving south across California will bring rain and snow showers with some thunderstorms to the region through Friday. Slick road conditions will produce travel impacts in the Sierra at times through Friday morning. Brisk and chilly conditions are expected through tonight, followed by a warming and drying trend through the upcoming weekend.

San Francisco Weather:

An upper level low over Northern California will result in showers and isolated thunderstorms over portions of the district today and early Friday. Dry weather conditions and slightly warmer temperatures return for the weekend as the system shifts inland and high pressure builds over the region.

WEATHER

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

A low pressure system dropping through northern California will bring scattered showers or thunderstorms to much of Northern California today then to the Sierra through the end of the week. Near normal temperatures can be expected today then warming into the weekend. Breezy north winds today will be observed mainly on the West side of the Valley with a chance of showers or thunderstorms again early next week mainly northern mountains.

Hanford Weather:

A storm system will bring wintery weather to the highest elevations of the Sierra today through Friday with showers and thunderstorms in the lower elevations. Dry weather and warmer temperatures will return Sunday as a ridge of high pressure builds into central California. Winds are picking up across the west side of the San Joaquin valley and have issued a wind advisory. We are also expecting winds to become widespread across the Kern county desert this afternoon and evening.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

A cold upper level low will bring a chance of showers and thunderstorms today through Friday as well as cool temperatures. High pressure will build in Saturday through Monday bringing dry and warmer conditions. For the middle of next week cooler weather is anticipated as another area of low pressure may impact the area.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

A deep low pressure system will bring cloudy and colder weather Thursday and Friday along with scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms. Gusty west winds will continue in the mountains and deserts. Continued cool temperatures can be expected Saturday then dry and warmer Sunday and Monday with weak high pressure aloft. Cooler unsettled weather could return for the second half of next week.

Southeast California Weather:

Drier and breezy conditions will persist today before a strong eastern pacific weather system moves across the southwest states on Friday. It will be windy this evening over southeast California. The low pressure system will bring stronger gusty winds cooler temperatures and increasing precipitation chances through Saturday. A slow warming trend commences late in the weekend into early next week as high pressure gradually rebuilds over the desert southwest.
